Initial Support

A bipartisan group of United States Senators has introduced a bill known as the Credit Card Competition Act, which seeks to reduce the hidden cost of using credit cards by requiring large banks to offer payment processing alternatives besides Visa and Mastercard. Do you support or oppose this proposal?

Rewards Reduction

Because this bill would create new competition that may drive down fees credit card companies can charge, it may potentially reduce the availability or value of credit card reward points that some customers receive when they use their credit cards. Does knowing this make you more or less likely to support the Credit Card Competition Act?
